MONKEYPOX FAQ

WHAT IS MONKEYPOX?

Monkeypox is a potentially serious viral illness that typically involves flu-like symptoms, swelling of the lymph nodes and a rash that includes bumps that are initially filled with fluid before scabbing over. Illness could be confused with a sexually transmitted infection like syphilis or herpes, or with chickenpox.

WHAT ARE THE SYMPTOMS?

- Fever
- Headache
- Chills
- Muscle aches and backache
- Swollen lymph nodes
- Exhaustion
- A possibly painful rash that can look like pimples or blisters that appear on the face, inside the mouth and/or other parts of the body, like the hands, feet, chest, genitals or anus

Symptoms usually appear 1-2 weeks after exposure. Sometimes people get a rash first, followed by other symptoms. Others only experience a rash. Some cases in the current U.S. outbreak have experienced only isolated rashes in the genital region or other body parts. Illness typically lasts 2-4 weeks.

WHAT IF I HAVE SYMPTOMS?

- Contact your healthcare provider right away and ask about testing, or contact a local provider in this guide.
- Avoid sex or other close, intimate contact.
- If you test positive, isolate until your rash has healed, all scabs have fallen off and a fresh layer of intact skin has formed.
